

Blogs and Journals for Students

In your Scholar Course, your instructor may assign you to maintain a blog or a journal throughout the semester. This can be for a variety of reasons—either for a grade, or ungraded. If an instructor has assigned a blog or a journal to you, you will be able to locate it in an appropriately-named section of Scholar listed in the course's sidebar.

Clicking the link will bring you to an open space, which may contain one or more blogs or journals for your use. Click on the blog or journal you wish to update to enter it.

Blogs

A blog is your personal online journal that you can use to share knowl

Display Blogs All Blogs ▼

Blog about Weekly Assignment ▼

Type: Individual
 Last Modified Date: 3/18/20 1:51 PM
 Entries: 1

Blog about Weekly Assignment ▼

Type: Individual
 Last Modified Date: 8/13/20 3:41 PM
 Entries: 0

Book Review Blog! ▼

Type: Individual
 Last Modified Date: 8/13/20 3:41 PM
 Entries: 0

You will be brought into a space where you can view all the posts currently in the blog or journal. If the blog or journal is graded, you may also see the current grade in a sidebar, as well as an index to let you switch from entry to entry inside a single blog. To create a new entry, click Create Blog/Journal Entry.

Create Blog Entry

Blog Instructions

Each Week Every student must post a short review of the book they read this week. Include a summary of the plot and themes!

Tuesday, June 14, 2022

 Thrawn

Posted by  Janna Dougherty_PreviewUser at Tuesday, June 14, 2022 2:50:44 PM

It's a Star Wars Book you nerd

Comment

Blog Details

 Janna Dougherty_PreviewUser (3)

GRADE
 3/18/20 11:03 AM 50.00 /100

Comments

Feedback to Learner
 3/18/20 11:06 AM
 You did review. But this is not an appropriate book for college.

INDEX

- Jun 12, 2022 - Jun 18, 2022 (1)
 Thrawn
- May 3, 2020 - May 9, 2020 (1)
- Mar 15, 2020 - Mar 21, 2020 (1)

You'll be brought to a space where you can create your blog entry. Fill in all the needed fields and attach the needed files before clicking Post Entry to post the new entry to your Blog or Journal.

The entry will then be shown as the most recent entry in the blog/journal, and the index will be updated to include the new entry.

If you are participating in a blog, students also have the ability to navigate to, view, and comment on the blogs of other students in the course. To navigate to other student blogs, use the navigator arrows on the right-hand sidebar. The name between the arrows is the student whose blog is currently being viewed. Note: If you are currently viewing the blog of another student, you will not be able to create a new blog entry until you return to your own blog. This ability is also not present in Journals, which are built to serve as a private space between you and the instructor.

While viewing another students' blog, you are able to comment on their blog posts by clicking Comment under the post in question. A simple comment box will open, allowing you to type your comment directly attached to the post. Click Add to publish the comment.

A screenshot of a blog post by 'Thrawn'. The post title is 'It's a Star Wars Book you nerd'. Below the post is a comment box. A red arrow points to the 'Comment' button. Below the comment box is a large text area for typing a comment. At the bottom right of the comment box are 'Cancel' and 'Add' buttons. A red arrow points to the 'Add' button. There is also a checkbox labeled 'Comment on Entry as Anonymous' and a small 'abc' icon with a green checkmark.